Starr Miller with STARR MILLER INTERIOR DESIGN

This tired traditional home came to life with contemporary clean lines, blocks of color and new furniture layered with solid textural and geometric patterned fabrics. Scaling down the overly "decorated" space allowed the clients to see the beautiful bones of their rooms and offered them a calm oasis reflecting their lake view. Fabulous lighting, updated paint, commissioned artwork and Tibetan rugs completed the transformation.

Joan Inglis with CAROLINA SPACES

This beautiful project was once a shell of a home salvaged from foreclosure. The designer assisted with relocating walls, doorways and closets. Furnishings were selected and installed in the completed home while it went on public tour for charity.

■ INTERIOR DESIGN- COMMERCIAL

Traci Johnson with PTI DESIGN

This designer met the goal of designing displays and merchandising layouts to entice business patrons to explore an expansive space. At the same time, she created a unique, inviting atmosphere with style. She incorporated flexibility into the design for future growth. Otherwise necessary items were transformed into centerpiece focal points. Branding was reflected in the fixtures and color choices. All areas took into account the comfort and ease of the client's customers with special touches throughout.
